Indigene Scholarship Scheme

The Indigene Scholarship Scheme offers scholarships to students attending the Local Authority Primary School in Iloko town which is the school's host community and to students attending primary schools in Oriade LGA in Osun State. The Scholarship covers full tuition and boarding throughout their stay in the school.

As a school, we are keen to see the scholarship programme extended to accommodate more students. There are so many students with the potential to benefit from an Olashore education. Every day, thousands of children across the nation give up on their dreams for an education as a result of lack of funds. We may not be able to help them all but we can help some. We believe investing in the future of these ones is the right thing to do and you can be a part of this project.

You can contribute by making payment into the scholarship account:

Alumni Officer

D.K.Smith
CEO/PRINCIPAL

Welcome to another edition of the Olashore Alumni magazine. I am pleased that the number of alumni we are reaching continues to grow. I have recently been in touch with a number of you through LinkedIn. I find this a great way to connect and keep up with how you are getting on. There is an Olashore International Alumni Networking Group on LinkedIn that you may want to join and also feel free to send me a LinkedIn request.

As the alumni network grows we have also been making some changes in the school to support this growth. You will see in this edition that we have a new Registrar, Mr. Bako. Part of his role is to make sure we keep up to date on the success you are all having and he will be working with Jennifer on this in the coming months.

There are also a number of events in the next few months that I would encourage you to attend if possible. Year 12 will be celebrating their Valedictory Service on Saturday 18th June and it would be great to see as many of you as possible at the event to welcome them to the Olashore Alumni. The following week, on Friday

24th June, the Friends of Olashore will be hosting a Recognition Awards Night at the MUSON Centre. The aim is to celebrate parents, teachers, alumni and organisations that have helped build and maintain the Olashore International School brand over the years. More information is available on the alumni website www.oisalumni.org or you can email them at foo@oisalumni.org

It was great to welcome Ezekiel & Oyewo back to Olashore this term. Whilst Ezekiel has been into the school a number of times in recent years, Oyewo had not been inside the school for many years. Both were impressed by the redevelopment going on. They did comment that the new hostels were much smarter than when they lived there and were shocked that students now have hot showers! This is the 21st century gents.

I would encourage all alumni to visit us whenever you are in the area, we love to hear your stories and tell you ours. In the meantime, enjoy reading the magazine to catch up on what your fellow alumni are achieving and a few of the activities in school.

Protecting yourself from Lassa fever

DR. ALEXANDRA ADEYEMI SPEAKS ON THE LASSA FEVER THAT HAS HIT MANY STATES IN NIGERIA AND EXPLAINS HOW WE CAN PROTECT OURSELVES AND OUR LOVED ONES...

The Lassa fever outbreak has affected over eight states including Lagos, Edo, Rivers, Niger, Kano and Oyo. Despite the recent outbreak, Lassa fever is not new in this part of the world. It was first discovered in the 1950s, however, the virus causing Lassa fever was not identified until 1969 by Christian health workers in Lassa town in present Borno State of Nigeria from where the disease derives its name. It is endemic in West Africa and subsequent outbreaks have occurred in Nigeria, Liberia, and Sierra Leone since it was first discovered.

Transmission

Lassa fever is a Zoonotic disease, meaning that humans become infected from contact with infected animals. These rats naturally live in bushes around human homes and visit such homes in search of food or during bush burning in an attempt to escape the fires. This species of rat, when infected with Lassa virus, does not become ill but can shed the virus in its urine and faeces. Ingestion of contaminated food or other edibles infects humans. In areas where such rats are a source of food, exposure to the infected rat's blood and ingestion of its meat increase risk of infection. Lassa virus may also be spread from human to human through direct contact with blood urine, faeces and other bodily secretions from an infected person. Person to person transmission can occur both in community and healthcare settings where proper sanitary measures are not employed.

Symptoms

The disease occurs in all age groups and both sexes. People at the greatest risk are those living in poor sanitary conditions. The incubation period, which is the time it takes for the disease to manifest and show its different symptoms, is usually from 6-21 days following which an acute illness with multi organ involvement occurs. Non specific symptoms include high fever, headache, sore throat, cough, abdominal pain, vomiting, continuous diarrhoea or constipation. In severe cases, bleeding from the gums and internal organs which may lead to shock and death may occur. Clinically, Lassa fever infections are difficult to distinguish from other viral haemorrhagic fevers like Ebola and Marburg and from more common feverish illnesses like malaria, shigellosis or typhoid.

Treatment

Ribavirin is still the drug of choice and is efficient if administered as soon as the first signs occur. Antibiotics may be administered to treat or ward off secondary and opportunistic infections. There is currently no effective prophylaxis against the disease but some recommend ribavirin for people who have come in contact with high risk patients.

Prevention

There is no vaccine available consequently people should cover their food properly whether cooked or uncooked. Also maintain adequate personal hygiene with frequent hand washing. The surroundings should be kept clean and refuse disposed properly to keep rats away. In addition, one must wear protective covering when in contact with infected persons and report symptoms immediately to the nearest health centre.

IT'S YOUR LIFE TO LEAD

← MAYOWA DEPO-OYEDOKUN, AN ALUMNUS OF OLASHORE INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL (CLASS OF 2011), TALKS ABOUT HER BOOK AND TIME AS A STUDENT... →

THE BOOK

It is an inspirational book intended to make us stop sleepwalking through life. It will encourage you to take steps and go after your dreams because your dreams matter. Each chapter in the book is interspersed with relatable stories and I shared the stories of great people such as Wilma Rudolph and Cobhams Asuquo to mention a few. The book launch held at N. U. J Press Centre, Iyanganku, Ibadan in January.

INSPIRATION FOR THE BOOK

I wrote the book 'It's your life to lead' because I felt it was time to talk to people in my generation. Many of us approach life with a lackadaisical attitude, and many are not taking charge of their lives. Yet, in this same generation, we have people breaking and setting new records, even people that didn't come from privileged backgrounds. So what is stopping the rest of us? The book is intended to wake us up.

because she feels it will help a lot of people in her school. That brought tears of gratitude to my eyes.

MOST DIFFICULT STAGE OF WRITING

I think the stage I found most difficult was getting over the mental challenge that made me question if the book would be worth it. If you want to do anything worthwhile in life, you will have to face that inner battle of fear and laziness and just keep going. So facing and overcoming those mental challenges were difficult while writing the book.

OTHER PUBLISHED WORKS

It is my first book. I don't have any manuscripts at the moment, but I already have a title for the next book I want to work on. I have a lot of works that have been published online, on my blog www.mateyscott.com and other blogs.

RESPONSE TO THE BOOK

The book was just recently released and has not been in the market for so long, but the people that have been able to get it have been blessed by it. The response so far has been really encouraging and I thank God for it. A young lady who read the book sent me a message on Facebook to ask how she can get copies for her school library

The book launch

PASSION FOR WRITING

I first discovered my passion for writing in JSS3 at Olashore International School. I always enjoyed writing the English essays we had to write in class and positive feedback from teachers encouraged me to write more. I developed it by writing a lot just for fun and giving it to my classmates to read.

FONDEST MEMORY OF OLASHORE SCHOOL

I remember Friday afternoons when it was Casserole day and everyone could not wait till the last class was over. Some teachers were kind enough to release us early and we would all rush down to our different hostels just for casserole. Those days were really good.

EXPERIENCE AS A STUDENT OF OLASHORE SCHOOL

I had a good experience at OIS. I learnt a lot, not just academically, but also about life. Living in Senior House Girls and being given freedom helped me a lot to be an independent person. I always looked forward to Founder's day and the different activities organised in school.

LIFE AFTER OLASHORE SCHOOL

I went to Abbey College, Manchester the same year I graduated from Olashore. After my A-levels at Abbey College, where OIS is well known as some of my teachers then had been to OIS, I took a year off to really be sure about what I wanted to study. I am presently in my second year, studying Law at University of Kent, Canterbury, UK.

Copies of the book can be obtained from Spectrum House, Ring Road, Ibadan (07052690010). Apo Sparklight Plaza, Opposite Living Faith Church, Area 1, Durumi (07052690051), and 13, Osho Street, Opebi Oregun Link Road, Ikeja (07052690011). The e-book will be out soon. You can check www.mateyscott.com for more details.

Nuclear Generation Engineer
Uzodhu Michael

Uzodhu Michael, an alumnus who currently works as a Nuclear Generation Engineer with EDF Energy, one of the largest energy companies in the UK, speaks about life after Olashore International School...

AS A STUDENT OF OIS, WHAT WERE SOME OF THE ACTIVITIES YOU WERE INVOLVED IN?

During my time in OIS, I tried to maximise my opportunities, getting involved in as many activities as I could. Most of these were team activities such as debates, quizzes and some sports like football, handball and field hockey to mention a few.

HOW HAS YOUR TRAINING IN OIS HELPED YOU PROFESSIONALLY AND OTHERWISE?

Looking back, I consider OIS a stepping stone to greater heights; academically and professionally. My habit of engaging in daily post-lecture studies whilst at university, and now post-work personal development stem from 'prep' sessions at OIS. The importance of planning at the start of the day and reviewing at the end cannot be over-emphasized. OIS also provided opportunities to vie for leadership positions thus improving my social, communication, team-working and interpersonal skills.

I was the Events Coordinator and later the Treasurer for the African Caribbean Society at the University of Manchester. This is evidence that the training I received many years ago has helped me through different stages, and continues to help me.

WHAT WERE SOME OF YOUR MEMORABLE MOMENTS IN OIS?

Although all my time at OIS was memorable, I think the most memorable were the beginning and the end. I remember the first day, like it was yesterday. It was the beginning of a new chapter in life. Far away from home in Port-

Harcourt, I made new friends, and benefitted from the diverse culture at OIS. The memories of the final days are of mixed feelings. Studying for the most difficult exams as at the time, having to leave friends were difficult issues I was faced with at the time. A positive mindset, embedded in me during my time at the school, helped me through this. Luckily, we are in a rapidly technologically advancing world hence, most of us are still in touch irrespective of our locations.

HOW WOULD YOU DESCRIBE YOUR STAY IN OIS?

In one word, magnificent! One may not have thought so whilst at the School, but like the popular saying by Joni Mitchell; "Don't it always seem to go, that you don't know what you've got till it's gone." I miss the staff (academic and non-academic) and students. We were like a family!

I'M SURE YOU HAVE HEARD ABOUT SOME OF THE RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN OIS, WHAT IS YOUR TAKE ON THESE?

I think the school has progressed massively from where it was as at the time I left. Some of the recent developments that I have heard of are the refurbishment of the dormitories, integration of iPads into the learning structure and more importantly, the Systematic Leadership Programme which I hear is different from the programme traditionally organised for prefects. Speaking to a member of staff, I was told that the school identifies its students as potential leaders of tomorrow and deems it necessary to develop such qualities. This is good for the students of the school, the local community and the nation at large, looking at the bigger picture.

SINCE GRADUATION, WHAT HAVE YOU BEEN UP TO?

Graduating in 2009, I went to the UK to study at Oswestry School, where I did my A-Levels, and then to obtain my MEng (Hons) in Electrical and Electronics Engineering at the University of Manchester. I am a member of the Institute of Engineering and Technology, currently working towards attaining a chartered status. I have also been involved in a few businesses and investments whilst at university, and after graduation.

HOW HAS THE EXPERIENCE WORKING WITH ONE OF THE LARGEST ENERGY COMPANIES BEEN LIKE?

Haha! It has definitely been very exciting. It is amazing working with brilliant minds producing about one-fifth (20%) of the UK's electricity and supplying around 5 million residential and business accounts with electricity or gas. What would be more amazing, is contributing to solving the power problems in my home country, Nigeria.

This being said, working with such a company has made me more politically, security, and environmentally conscious as we work collectively to secure the UK's energy future.

I have also been opportune to work within different business units across the company which aids to fix the puzzle, if you may like, as to how such a massive organisation functions.

YOU WORK AS A NUCLEAR GENERATION ENGINEER, WHAT DOES THIS ENTAIL?

The most important thing it entails is a high nuclear safety culture. As a Nuclear Generation Engineer, I am part of the workforce that operates the power stations that produce electricity. This goes directly into the National Grid to be transmitted throughout the UK.

The generation process in the simplest terms is using nuclear fuel as a heat source to boil water which then produces steam to turn the turbines that turn the generator. The electricity voltage that is then generated is 'stepped-up' for transmission by the National Grid.

WHO ARE YOUR ROLE MODELS?

I admire certain characteristics in my dad and as such would call him my role model.

DESCRIBE YOUR TYPICAL DAY?

In the broad sense, my typical day would be proffering engineering solutions. This in some cases would involve taking a non-engineering perspective such as its financial viability, emergency preparations, legal and regulatory framework, etc.

WHAT IS THE MOST IMPORTANT ADVICE YOU EVER RECEIVED?

The most important advice I have ever received was from my mum. She always says: "Remain focused, so you can make a nation where there is none."

WHAT DRIVES YOU?

There are a few things: challenge, commerciality, sustainability, professionalism and most importantly, 'the bigger picture'.

WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS FOR THE FUTURE?

Nonetheless, I am ambitious, and as such have many plans for the future which I hope would come together enabling me achieve the overall goal which is to impact in the lives of as many people as I can: directly or indirectly. I hope to play key roles within the private sector nationally and internationally, and at some stage, possibly be involved in public administration.

HAVING EXCELLED AS A HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT, WHAT WILL BE YOUR ADVICE TO STUDENTS?

I would advise current students to always think of the bigger picture. It is only when you know where you want to get to, and where you are coming from, that you can come up with a plan on how to reach your destination.

OLASHORE INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

ILOKO-IJESA, OSUN STATE, NIGERIA.

...developing leaders for the dynamic global society.

Olashore International School is a private co-educational school which offers quality education to Nigerians, living at home and abroad, and expatriates resident in Nigeria.

At Olashore, students are given more than academic foundation in a setting that promotes core Nigerian moral and cultural values. We provide life skills, leadership training, arts, sports and global exposure.
